Frequently Asked Questions

Q: How do Employers benefit by hiring Servicemembers?

A: The employment of Servicemembers is a positive return on investment. The Partnership can recruit a Servicemember for service to our country and an employee for a civilian company. Businesses have the potential to save up-front hiring costs by not having to duplicate pre-screening, drug tests and aptitude test.

Q: For how long must a company commit to a partnership?

A: The Program's goal is to create long-term, enduring and mutually beneficial relationships with business leaders in communities across the country. There are no time requirements or limitations on the duration of the alliance. Partnerships will be sustained for as long as the Servicemembers and the Employer find the joint venture to be mutually rewarding.

Q: Our company is interested in investigating the possibilities of the Employer Partnership, but can't commit to hiring Servicemembers right now. Can we still partner?

A: Yes, the Employer Partnership provides a wide array of opportunities for businesses of all sizes to partner with the Servicemembers. The Employer Partnership will work with your company to tailor a program that meets our mutual goals in a long-term partnership. One of the benefits of the Employer Partnership is access to potential employees who are well-trained and qualified, which is especially relevant during this period of economic uncertainty.
