

PUERTO RICO

TELECOM

CONFERENCE 2011

THE NEW FUTURE

Mr. Jorge G. Lopez

Industry Manager Latin America Public Safety and National Security, Microsoft

Jorge is Microsoft's senior executive, chief strategist and spokesperson for Public Safety and National Security markets and initiatives in Latin America. He is responsible for business strategy development and execution for several public sectors including military, intelligence, homeland security, justice and law enforcement.

Prior to this role, Jorge was Lead Program Manager in Windows Sustained Engineering where he led the security response process for security updates to Microsoft Windows through Windows Update. Prior to joining Microsoft, Jorge was a Senior IT Manager for the Planning Directorate, Joint Communications and Information Division (J6) at United States Central Command and the IT Manager for the Department of State International Narcotics and Law Enforcement Air Wing based in Bogota, Colombia.

Mr Lopez was commissioned as a Communications and Information Officer from the United States Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC), Jorge served two assignments in the U.S. Air Force culminating as Chief Programs Officer for 12th Air Force at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base in Tucson, Az. In this role, Jorge was responsible for all Communications and Information programs for the Southern Air Forces in Central and South America and the Caribbean.

Jorge holds a Bachelor of Science degree from the Mayaguez Campus of the University of Puerto Rico and a Master's of Business Administration from Florida International University.